AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY.

HOUSE DEADLOCK BROKEN

The Resolution to Change the Rules Recommitted.

THE TARIFF BILL IN THE SENATE.

The Senate.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, it was ordered that Mr. Gray's amendment to the Panama resolution and the action of the Senate thereon at yesterday's session be printed in the Record.

SPECIAL DELIVERY LETTERS. Mr. Sawyer, from the post-office committee reported back house bill providing that the omission to pay the lawful postage on a "special delivery" letter shall not prevent or delay its transmission and delivery, but that the lawful postage shall be collected on its delivery. Passed.

ELECTIONS OF CONGRESSMEN.

Mr. Sherman introduced a bill to make and alter regulations as to the time, place, and manner of holding elections for Repesentatives in Congress, which was referred to the committee on privileges and elections. He said that the bill had been prepared by a gentleman who was familiar with the subject, but did not care to have his name published. The bill was unpartisan in its character and was calculated to ensure absolutely fair elections in every part of the United States. It was confined to elections of members of Congress. Many of its provisions were rather novel to him, because they were modeled on laws in southern states, with which he was not familiar. Many of them were drawn from laws in northern states. Mr. Hoar offered a resolution (which was agreed to) calling on the Secretary of the gard to the evasion of sugar duties in New York. THE TARIFF BILL.

Treasury for the report of Special Treasury Officer Byrne, made in November, 1887, in re-

The Senate then, at half past 12, resumed consideration of the tariff bill at paragraph 337. relating to collars and cuffs for men's wear, and fixing the duty on those composed entirely of cotton at 15 cents per dozen pieces and 35 per cent ad valorem, and on those composed entirely or partly of linen at 30 cents per dozen pieces and 35 per cent ad valorem. Mr. Vance moved to strike out those rates, and to insert 40 per cent ad valorem. The proposed rates, he said, would be equivalent to a tax of 150 per cent ad valorem. The amendment was rejected by the usual party vote—yeas 19, nay 24. No amendment was offered to paragraph 338, taxing hemp or jute carpeting 6 cents per

THE COTTON BAGGING CLAUSE. Mr. Jones (Ark.) moved to amend paragraph 339, which taxes bagging for cotton, gunny cloth, &c., for covering cotton, composed (valued at not more than three cents per bound) three-fourths of a cent per pound by outting it on the free list.

Mr. Berry argued in support of the amend-ment, asserting that the tax must come out of the pockets of southern planters and laborers, and would amount to 10½ cents a bale on six million bales, or, in the aggregate $650,000 on the year's cotton crop, while the tax on cotton ties would amount to $1,350,000 more. Why, he asked, should this $2,000,000 be taken from the pockets of southern planters and laborers and handed over to manufacturers? Mr. Jones (Ark.) made a statement as to the ombination entered into last year by THE COTTON BAGGING TRUST, and said that if the trust had been enabled to ncrease the price of the existing duty (equal o about 3 cents a vard) it would have extorted $1,500,000 from the cotton growers, while the whole amount paid for labor in the business of making the bagging was less than half a million

He read testimony of bagging manufacturers before the finance committee admitting that they had a "corner" and stating that no power on earth could prevent it, the only danger to the combination being death or that they should turn thieves on each other. He argued that the rate of % of a cent per pound on jute bagging, as provided in the House bill, was ample protection, and more than covered the difference between the cost of abor in the United States and India; but he hought that jute bagging should be put on the MR. GEORGE'S VIEWS.

Mr. George said he represented the second argest cotton-growing state in the south, and that if he could have the attention of the republican Senators he thought he could conpublican Senators he thought he could convince them that the proposed tax on cotton bagging was a very great injustice to the laborer of the south and ought not to be perpetrated. But he had noticed, during the very able presentation of the question by the Arkansas Senators, that Senators on the other side were reading or writing, or engaged in conversation, and he did not expect a better fate than had been did not expect a better fate than had been accorded to the Senator from Arkansas. He would concede that there were as many as 5,000 laborers engaged in the production of bagging, and he would also concede (though he did not believe it) that these laborers were benefited by the tax. He believed that the nanufacturers of the bagging were

THE ONLY PERSONS BENEFITED BY THE TAX. But, on the other hand, how many laborers, e asked, contributed to the tax. Taking the total production as seven million bales a year. and assuming (as was the fact) that three bales required the work of one la-borer, there was two and one-third million laborers engaged in the raising of cot-ton. Largely more than half of the seven millions was raised (and owned by men who worked with their own hands in its production) and paid the tax direct. In other, words, this tax on cotton bagging was being imposed directly (not indirectly), immediately (not mediately or through circumvention), on the 1,250,000 men, women, and children who furnished the manual labor to make the cotton. THE POOR, STRUGGLING, LABORING PROPLE OF

to the number of more than one-and-a-quarter million were being robbed-for what? To give 5,000 men higher wages than the average wages of those who paid the tax.

House of Representatives.

As the clerk finished the reading of the journal, Mr. Reed (Me.) advanced to his favorite position in the aisle directly in front of the Speaker and fined the first eaker, and fired the first gun of the fifth day's contest over the proposed change of rules, by calling up the resolution reported by him from the committee on rules.

This time the shot took effect, and the previous question was ordered on the resolution by a vote of yeas 187, nays 20. Then Mr. Holman, of Indiana, acting in pursuance of the caucus action last night, moved to recommit the resolution, and, upon that motion, demanded the previous question.

MR. PAYSON'S MOTION. Mr. Payson (Ill.) desired to move to recommit the resolution, with instructions to the committee on rules how to act in the premises, but the Speaker ruled that one motion to re-commit having been made and the previous question demanded, another motion to recom-mit, even though coupled with instructions, was not in order unless the demand for the previous question was voted down.

The following is the motion which Mr. Payson proposed to submit:

That the resolution be recommitted to the committee on rules, with instructions to that committee to report the same back to-morrow or the next legislative day with this amendment, and immediately after the reading of the journal on said days (suspension Mondays) the House shall proceed as in committee of the whole to the consideration of the bill, Senate bill 181, entitled "An act granting pensions to ex-soldiers and sailors who are incapacitated for the performance of manual labor, pacitated for the performance of manual labor, and providing for pensions to dependent rela-tives of deceased soldiers and sailors," until its consideration is concluded.]

As the roll-call on Mr. Holman's motion progressed, and the vote promised to be a close one, much interest was manifested by members, who crowded in the space in front of the Speaker's desk and eagerly listened to the responses with intense interest. Mr. Reed circulated around the republican side of the House, endeavoring to persuade his colleagues who had voted with the democrats to change their votes, while Mr. Springer (Ills.) did missionary work among his political friends to induce them to vote in the negative.

The friends of the Holman motion were not idle, and the democrats who have previously voted for the resolution were vigorously argued with. The efforts on each side were partially suc-cessful. Mr. Nelson (Minn.), Mr. Perkins (Kan.), and Mr. Thomas (Wis.), yielding to the solicita-tions of Mr. Reed, backed by the argument of the necessity of the republicans solidifying against the edict of a democratic caucus, and changing their votes from the affirmative to the negative. On the other side Mr. Landes (Ill.), Mr. Lawler (Ill.), and Mr. Taulbee (Ky.), who had voted in the negative, changed their votes to the affirmative, under the pressure brought to bear upon them

The following republicans voted in the affirmative: Messrs. THE PROPOSED CENSUS OF VETERANS. Gen. Warner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and others have applied to Senator Hale, as chairman of the committee on census, for a hearing on the veterans of the rebellion being embodied in the next census, and the committee will be in pose. The sentiment in support of this census is quite extensive and growing rapidly, and it is understood the committee are favorably inclined to the proposition.

THE DIRECT-TAX BILL. This morning the conferees on the direct-tax bill held a meeting, and heard arguments from Senator Butler and Representative Elliott in behalf of the amendment put on the bill by the House, proposing to pay $800,000 to reimburse residents of Beaufort, S. C., for property sold for taxes during the reconstruction period, were charged with fraud. The objection to the amendment is that the subject-matter does not belong to the direct-tax bill, but should be incorporated into a separate bill.

The Library Building. RESOLUTION TO BE INTRODUCED BY MR. VOOR-

Senator Voorhees will introduce a resolution in the Senate to extend the limit of the cost of the national library building so as to admit of the adoption of the six million dollar plan. He expects to be able to pass it through the Senate very promptly. When it comes to the House Judge Payson, who was chiefly instrumental in causing new plans to be ordered will support the resolution, as he favors the $6,000,000 plan. It is not expected that there will be any trouble if this plan is carried out.

Fraudulent Bonds

Recently two $500 District of Columbia 3.65 per cent coupon bonds were sent over to the Treasury from Riggs & Co.'s bank for exchange for registered bonds of the same amount. Upon examination it was found that the bonds bearing the numbers on these had been redeemed in April, and that the numbers on the bonds had been changed. No. 10,041 had originally been 11,154, and No. 11,154 had been 11,134. The records of the office showed that these two numbers had been reported some years ago as having been stolen from Mr. Prud'homme.

CAN'T BE EXCHANGED. Controller Durham has addressed a letter to Treasurer Hyatt relative to the matter. The question presented by the treasurer was whether ne could legally issue the registered bonds in exchange as requested. In reply to this Judge Durham answers in the negative, on the ground that the numbers of the bonds having been changed from other numbers, the bonds are changed from other numbers, the bonds are not genuine.

When asked as to the disposition of the bonds, the controller said that they should properly be returned to Judge MacArthur, who is the executor of the Fuller estate, to which they belonged, to be used in the settlement of the estate. The administrator might then, he said, go before the courts or Congress for relief.

London, Jan. 8.-Prof. Huxley, as inspecto of fisheries, puts forth an appeal in favor of closing certain areas against trawling for a few years in order to obtain definite evidence of the effects of trawling. He laments the ignorance on the subject of sea fisheries, even among the officials of some of the fish culture establishments, but rejoices that in a few years, thanks to the labors of the Marine Biological association and the United States fish commission, something like a solid foundation for future legislative action or inaction will be

The demand for Macaulay's works is so large the demand for Macaniay's works is so large that Longmans have at last published a popular edition at a price little more than the cost of the paper and binding. Writing recently to a friend who wrote an essay in defense of Macaniay, Trevelyan said: "It is extraordinary how the world by the increasing demand for Macaniay's writings shows its agreement with Macaulay's writings shows its agreement with on and how few critics write in that opinion. Trevelyan proceeds to say he has just come away from a rather rowdy debate in the house of commons and, as sometimes happened, had a great rush of regret at having abandoned literature for politics.

Carter, register of wills of this county, situated a mile from this place, was last night entered by a burglar and $275 stolen. The room entered was that occupied by Mr. Carter on the first floor, the money being taken from the pockets of his pantaloons, which were dropped upon the floor in an adjoining room. A back door fastened by a bolt on the inside was this morning found open, and it is sup-posed the thief gained access by a window and escaped through the doorway.

Cause of the Fallure of Keefer Milling Company at Covington. CINCINNATI, Jan. 8.—The failure of the Keefer milling company, of Covington, yesterday, following so closely on the death of D. Keefer, the senior member. has further sensational phases. The suit brought by the First national bank and attachment made by it to secure its claim reveals that between Decem-ber 11 and 28 last the bank received drafts from ber 11 and 28 last the bank received drafts from the Keefer milling company drawn upon va-rious firms in Philadelphia and New York, it being supposed that the drafts in each case represented a consignment of flour. They ag-gregated about $46,000. Not one of these drafts was honored, no consignment having been made. The dishonored drafts were made and presented by George Keefer, the secretary of the company. His father, now dead, was notified of the facts before his death, and there is some ground for the belief that this knowledge hastened his death. He was found dead in his bed, and the coroner stated that death was from apoplexy. George Keefer is not now in Covington. It is said he used the money in wheat speculation, in which he was loser, but nothing definite is knownen the subject. He has been with his father from boyhood and has edge hastened his death. He was found dead always borne an excellent reputation. His whereabouts are not known.

From Wall Street To-day. New York, Jan. 8.—The stock market was weak at the opening this morning, the declines per cent, though Pacific Mail and Rock Island were exceptions, each being up 3/4 per cent. There was a little more animation than at that time of day during the past few days, but it was almost entirely confined to Beading and New England, which were unusually active, while the general list was dull and uninteresting as usual. St. Pauls, Union Pacific, and Northwestern showed some activity, but with Reading and the remainder of the list their fluctuations were made within a range of only % per cent, while the dealings were utterly de-void of feature of any kind. New England was the only stock showing any movement, and it developed some weakness in the early trading, losing % per cent, a portion of which was after-ward regained. The activity even in the leading shares disappeared toward the end of the hour, and at 11 o'clock the market was very dull and steady, at about opening price all through the list.

A Sleep-walker Killed.

LOEDON, Jan. 8.—The owners of the steamer Gulf of Guayaquil, which sailed from Liver-pool December 24 for Valparaiso, and from which wreckage recently washed ashers of of Judge Cooley's recent admonition to railroad managers in regard to the evils of the ticket-scalping trade, the trouble has assumed greater proportions than before. The promise that no more tickets should be placed in a scalper's hands and those in their possession should be withdrawn has not been kept. Not only have the tickets not been withdrawn but more have been placed with them. A month ago Ticket-Broker Frank had 950 tickets from Chicago to Kansas City, which were sold tohim by the Wabash at $6.25 each, although the tariff rate was $12.50. The other Kansas City lines had only a few tickets on the market. The Wabash tickets were found to be unlimited.

Reciever McNulta tried to buy them, but Frank refused to sell. Before suit was brought against Frank a conference was held between the Wabash people and Frank, and it was given out that the latter had agreed to return the unlimited tickets. It now transpires, however, that a deal was made which virtually places Frank in a better position than before. The nine hundred and fifty unlimited Wabash
tickets in his hands were redeemed at $6.25, but in exchange each of the five roads between Chicago and Kansas City placed with him two hundred limited tickets dated sometime ahead at $6.25, so that Frank has now about 1,000
tickets over all of the lines between Chicago and Kansas City, while before he had only nine hundred and fifty over the Wabash. The reason assigned by the Wabash's competitors for entering into this deal was that it was the only means by which the Wabash tickets could be gotten out of the market, and by which all roads could be placed on an equal footing. Now in order to enable Frank and the other ticket brokers to sell their tickets at large profit the railroads have advanced their rates to $6.50. The scalpers sell the tickets which they got for $6.25 for $11, or $1.50 less than people who go to the PARTING HONORS TO MR. PHELPS.

Osgoodby at First Had Scruples About Betraying Sackville's Confidence.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.-Mr. Osgoodby. the author of the famous Murchison letter, whose identity was revealed yesterday, says he did not until a few days before the correspondence was made public, have a conception of its importance in a political sense. When he did the thought of the far-reaching effects and possible consequences to himself personally alarmed him. Finally, however, after a conference with a few confidential friends in Pomona, including his two attorneys, P. C. Toner and W. A. Bell, it was determined to make the letters public, and on the 19th of October the letters were brought to Los Angeles by Bell, acting for Osgoodby. They were placed in the hands of Judge W. F. Fitzgerald, member of the republican state central committee; Henry T. Gage, late delegate to the republican national convention, and Col. H. G. Otis, editor of the Times, and these three decided to publish the letters without referring them to any committees, state or national, or to any other persons, as the campaign was then for advanced and further delay was deemed impolitic. They were accordingly published on the 21st of October in the columns of the Los Angeles Times, and soon found their way to New York. whose identity was revealed yesterday, says entertained by the Fishmongers, and a bust of Garibaldi adorns the vestibule of the com-pany's hall in London Bridge.
